create a click event using JavaScript without worrying about IE8? I have found that IE8 does not support the onclick event. Is there a way to prevent the browser from redirecting to a new page when an event like onclick is fired? A: You can't. There is no equivalent of the click event in JS for Internet Explorer 8. The good news is that a user experience that doesn't involve the browser's default action is a feature that's possible to implement. #grid.mouseleave(function(){ colores(0);});
